Cookies

To make this site work properly, we sometimes place small data files called cookies on your device. Most big websites do this too.

What are cookies?

A cookie is a small text file that a website saves on your computer or mobile device when you visit the site. It enables the website to remember your actions and preferences (such as login, language, font size and other display preferences) over a period of time, so you don't have to keep re-entering them whenever you come back to the site or browse from one page to another.

How do we use cookies?

Analytical cookies

Cookies are used to collect information on the use of the site. The owner uses this information for statistical analysis, to improve the site and simplify use, as well as for monitoring correct operation. This type of cookie collects anonymous information on the activity of users on the site and the way in which they arrived at the site and the pages visited. Cookies in this class are sent from the Site or from third-party domains.

Google Analytics

Third party cookies used for site usage statistics; cookie profiling. Cookies are used to track Network User navigation and create profiles on his/her tastes, habits, choices, etc. These cookies can be sent to the email address in the user's terminal line with the preferences already expressed by the user for online navigation. Our profiling cookies are used to collect Information from the experience of navigation on the site and are catalogued in our CRM to ensure targeted and appropriate communications.

Third Party Cookies

While navigating on our site you could receive cookies on your terminal from other sites or Web servers (so-called "third party cookies): this happens because elements may be present on the site such as, for example, images, maps, sounds or specific links to web pages of other domains that reside on different servers than the current page. In other words, these cookies are set by other operators of Web. These cookies can be sent to your browser from third parties directly from their websites that you access by navigating from www.praxivaluations.praxi.

In such cases, PRAXI Valuations Srl is extraneous to the operation of such cookies, as the third party takes responsibility for its sending. As explained by the fact Guarantor for privacy: "The obligation to inform the user about cookies and possibly acquire prior consent looms over the site operator who uses them, as owner of the treatment. In the case where a site allows the transmission of "third party" cookies, the information and the acquisition consent are normally the responsibility of the third party. It is necessary for the user to be adequately informed, albeit with simplified procedures provided for by law, when it is accessing a website that allows third cookie storage, or when accessing the content provided by third parties and, in any case, before cookies are downloaded on to their terminals."
